Biography:

Quinton Burgess aka Gost1o1, is a Twitch Content Creator and Orbital Warfare Space System Operator with the United States Space Force. As a Twitch Content Creator, with a growing fan base, Quinton has amassed thousands of views while streaming his game play of popular video games such as Call Of Duty: Warzone, Minecraft, Apex Legends, and others, for more than two thousand hours. It is in this role, while displaying his passion for tactics, design and all things related to space, that he is committed to inspiring, educating and informing his fans of current and upcoming video games, as well as streaming his own 3D printing projects, while discussing topics involving 3D design and Gun News. Alongside this role, and once serving in the United States Air Force, Quinton worked as a Space System Operator, before then leaving the Air Force in 2020 and transferring to the Space Force. Gaining the role of Orbital Warfare Operator, he would also become the winner of the General Schriever Space Warfighter Essay Contest, awarded by Lieutenant General Stephen N. Whiting.

This honored achievement plays a huge role in his encouragement to complete his studies at Colorado Christian University, where he is working toward earning his degree in Military Strategy. Also having studied with Analytical Graphics, Inc, he holds the certifications; Space Tool Kit Level 1 and Space Tool Kit Level 2 Master, which both focus on digital engineering, orbital vehicles, graphics, designs, and intelligence. Outside of his education and career, Quinton hopes that the future will allow him the opportunity to accomplish his dream of having his home created through 3D printing. He is also looking forward to earning a Bachelor's degree in additive/subtractive manufacturing, retiring from the military, and one day creating a company that is dedicated to helping our youth bring their prototype ideas to life. For now, and when he is not working, Quinton enjoys 3D Printing and design, computer programming, playing video games and making props. He is also a gun enthusiast, who loves to shoot, camp, hike and fish.
